Mayon's Oppics, New-York, Nov. 20, 1820.

To the Honorable the Common Council.

GENTLEMEN: It becomes my painful daty to amounce to you the death of an eminent man and illustrious author. Washington Irriug is no mote. He died at his late residence, at Nounyade, Westchester County, on the symming of the 78th inst. and already the witnes of the electric telegraph have sped the new so this sade event to tearly every part of our country, by which it will, no doubt, be considered as a national calemity.

While we how with resignation to the dispensation of our Heavenly Father, who has taken from our country and the world of liberature one of its greatest benefactors and gifted som, we are obserted by the thought that his works will be a rich and untailing treasure of instruction and delight for generations to come. The genial products of his pure and graceful pen will represe continue to allord a solane to the six and warry, and supply a fund of innocent gratification to all classes, as long as illerary taste and culture find place on earth; while his biographies of Columbus and Washington will fire the youthful mind to emplay the state and culture find place on earth; while his biographies of Columbus and Washington will fire the youthful mind to emplay the state of the first place of the relief of the pure and a secondary recommend in the field of letters the national credit and henor; and I am confident that his native city will not be indifferent in adding their tribute to his fame. I would accordingly recommend that the Common Council pass such resolutions a may be appropriate to this and occasion, expressing the sorrow of our citizens at his lose, as well as their admiration of him as a out of our citizens at his lose, as well as their admiration of him as Serent in adding their tribute to no name.

cocumment that the Common Council pass such resolutions a may be appropriate to this and occasion, expressing the sorrow of our citizens at his lors, as well as their admiration of him as a man, a writer, and a historian, and their sy apathy with his be reaved family and friends. I would also recommend that you direct the alarm bells, and request the church bells, to be tolked to-morrow, during the time fixed for his famoral, and that last on the public buildings be displayed at half-mast throughout the entire day.

DANIEL F. TIEMANN, Mayor.

The Board of Councilmen being in session, the communication was transmitted to it on motion of Alder

Ald. PECK then made a short speech on the fame and virtues of Washington Irving, concluding by offering the following resolutions:

Whereas, His House, the Mayor, has officially commun to the Board the melancholy intelligence of the decease of New-York's most illustrious sons, the Hon. Wash irving, the sad event occurring at his late residence at 8 side, on the banks of the Hudson, in the adjoining coun Menday evening last, at the advanced age of 6 years. And Whereas, in the decease of our illustrious and honored of the meet that the authorities of this, the city of his birth, as in a becoming manner evince the sense of the loss switzing whole country in being deprived of the companionsh who has by his exemplary life and his teachings, through who has by his exemplary life and his teachings, through inestimable legacy bequeathed to us in the Life of Washington. And .

Whereas. In the many and important national trusts committed to his charge as Secretary of Legation at the Court of St-James, and as Minister Pleuspotentiary at the Court of Madrid, the energy and Reighty with which he devoted his rare talents and shilling to the best interests of his country, entitle him to the lasting gratitude of those for whom he labored; and the Common Council, as the representatives of the greatest commercial and most important city in the Union, feet called upon to pay their feeble tribute of respect to his memory as a public man; and .

Whereas, Possessing as he did in an emiment degree, all those attributes which constitute the scholar, the patriot, and the statesman, his loss will be the more sorely felt, as his death creates a void in the number of our public men which cannot be tilled in our day and generation—the shining galaxy of toble mames, of whom he was a bright particular star, having of late years been gradually facing from our national horizon, never, we lear, to be replaced or renewed by stars of equal brilliancy; therefore, be it.

Readerd. That this formure, Connell decays connection with

Whereas, it is eminently proper that the Common Council should exhibit in a becoming manner its respect for the meanary and virtues of the illustrious dead; therefore,

Reselect, That the members of the Common Council attend in funeral from Trinity Church, Tarrytown, on Thursday, December I, at I o'clock, p. m., and wear the usual badge of mourning for 30 days.

In moving their adoption, Mr. OTTARSON said: It i In moving their adoption, Mr. OTTARSON said: It is of course quite unnecessary for me to attempt to add one word to the mingled expressions of sorrow and eulogy with which the sad announcement that has called us together, has been received. The press has this morning spread before a sorrowing world, the death and the leading events in the life of America's greatest literary son. His name and his fame are cosmopolitan; but as he was a true son of New-York, it is fitting that the corporate authority of his native city should show some distinguishing mark of their regard mon this and occasion. How truly he loved the city of should show some distinguishing mark of their regard upon this sad occasion. How truly he loved the city of his nativity, his own words can most fittingly express. In 1852, Mr. Irving returned home after an absence o 17 years, spent in the leading capitals of Europe. The dawning honors which he bore away with him had ripened, and he came back in the fullness of his clovy. New York welcomed him with one voice. A had ripened, and he came back in the fuliness of his glory. New-York welcomed him with one voice. A grand dinner was given to him at the City Hotel, under the auspices of such giants as Albert Gallatin, Chau-cellor Kent, Chancellor Walworth, Vice-Chancellor McCoun, Judges Jones, Oakley, Hoffman, James K.

cellor Kent, Chancellor Walworth, Vies-Chancellor McCoun, Judges Jones, Oakley, Hoffman, James K. Paulding, and many of our great men now living. Mr. Irving was warmly welcomed by Chancellor Kent; and in reply, paid the tribute of a son to the city of his birth, in the following eloquent words:

"As to my native city, from the time I approached the coast, I had indications of its growing greatness. We had scarce descried the land, when a thousand sails of all descriptions gleaming along the horizon, and all standing to or from one point, showed that we were in the neighborhood of a vast commercial emporium. As I sailed up the beautiful Bay, with a heart swelling with old recollections and delightful associations, I was astonished to see its once wild shores brightening with populous villages and noble structures, and a seeming city extending itself over the hights I had left covered with green forests. But how shall I describe my emotions when our city rose in sight, scated in the midst of its watery domain, stretching away to a vast extent; when I beheld a glorious sunshine lighting up the skies and the domes, some familiar to memory, others new and unknown, and bearing upon a forest of maste of every nation, extending as far as the eye could reach? I have gazed with admiration upon many a fair city and stately harbor, but my admiration was cold and ineffectual, for I with admiration upon many a fair city and stately har-bor, but my admiration was cold and ineffectual, for I was a stranger, and had no property in the soil. Here, however, my heart throbbed with pride and joy as I admired. I had a birthright in the brilliant scenes be-

'This was my own my native land.' "I come from gloomy climes to one of brilliant sun-shine and inspiring beauty. I come from countries lowering with doubt and danger, where the rich man trembles and the poor man frowns—where all repine at the present, and dread the future. I come from trembles and the poor man frowns—where all repine at the present, and dread the future. I come from these to a country where all is life and animation—where I hear on every side the sound of exultation; where every one speaks of the past with triumph, the present with delight, the future with growing and consident anticipation. Is not this a community in which one may rejoice to live? Is not this a city by which one may be proud to be received as a son? Is not this a land in which one may be happy to fix his destiny and ambition—if possible to found a name? I am asked how long I intend to remain here. They know but little of my heart or my feelings who can ask me that question. I answer, as long as I live."

Since that period he has, with exception of a brief sojourn abroad in an official capacity, resided in or near our city. And how nobly has been fulfilled his modest aspiration, "if possible to found a name," his world-wide fame attests. Sir, we cannot memorize his departure by military parades, and noisy demonstrations. His was a career of peace; but "Peace hath her victories, no less renowned than War;" and let us in a sober and peaceful procession share in the dast and rites that now remain to close the earthly history of one of the greatest and purest men that ever shed honor and fame upon our city.

Mr. Latsusus made a few appropriate remarks in seconding the resolutions, which were adopted.

The Presupert offered the following resolution:

HEBREW CONVENTION.

An adjourned meeting of the Hebrew Convention. consisting of delegates from the various congregations throughout the United States, was held at the Cooper Institute Tuesday evening, J. W. HART, esq., in the chair. The Committee on Constitution reported, through the Rev. Isaac Lessee of Philadelphia. The report having been accepted, it was submitted to the Convention by sections, and adopted as a guide to control the action of the Executive until the 1st of October next. The preamble set forth that there was a strong necessity for union among the Exacites in the United States, with a view to the advancement of their general interests, and that it could be better done by an organization such as was described by the Constitution. The report of the Committee accompanying the preamble and provisional Constitution was read. It set forth that "a pervading sense appears to be entertained of "the deplorable deficiency that exists in respect to re"ligious organization, and of an educational establishment for the training of American Jewish youth, to "qualify them to become ministers of congregations, The Committee on Constitution reported, through the qualify them to become ministers of congregations, but at the same time not to interfere with the inter-

FIRE IN WEST FORTY-THIRD STREET-PARTIAL DE-STRECTION OF A CARPET FACTORY-FIREMEN IN-

morning, about 10 o'clock, a fire broke out in the western wing of the extensive building on Forty-third and Forty-fourth streets, between Eleventh and Twelfth avenues, occupied by Messrs. Higgins & Co. as a carpet factory. The wing in which the fire originated is 160 feet in length by 25 feet wide, and was erected last Spring.

but how er in what manner it originated is unknown, although the supposition is that it originated from the spontaneous combustion of wool and rags, used in cleaning the machinery.

There were at the time about 100 persons at work in the wing, and those immediately engaged on the upper floor could easily have extinguished the fire as they had plenty of buckets of water at hand, but the dense smoke emanating from the burning wood drove them away, and all hands were compelled to retreat to the street. On account of the smoke it was impossible to enter the building, and the fire meantine gaining headway rapidly extended from floor to floor. The main building, 200 feet in hight, and adjoining the wing, was, at one time, in great jeopardy, but through the exertions of the firemen, the flames were prevented from communicating to it, and this portion of the establishment was saved almost harmless. The machinery, consisting of picking and spinning machines, was almost entirely destroyed, and the loss thereon will be between $60,000 and $70,000. The wing cost about $15,000, and was completely gutted.

BULL'S HEAD .- The hopes of the drovers, as felt and expressed on Tuesday, that the Cattle market this week would terminate as it began, sunk to zero long before night yesterday, and at the close all were sure that the market, taken altogether, had not proved any better for owners than it was a week ago. There is not much doubt that a good many of them sold cattle toward night on Wednesday at $3 to $6 a head less than they would sell them Tuesday noon. At near sundown, there were still a good many unsold cattle in the yards, and but little chance of sales, except to those who otly buy at very low rates. All day yes-terday the business dragged, and sales appeared to be effected only by extra exertions on the part of the cattle brokers, a good many of whom had bought their stock, and strove hard to save themselves from loss

ANNIVERSARY OF THE LAST REVOLUTION IN POLANDA -The twenty-ninth Anniversary of the Polish Revo-lution of 1830 was celebrated on Tuesday evening by the exiles and emigrants from that country resident in New-York, by a public meeting at the Steuben House, No. 233 Bowery. Among the audience there was a fair representation of females and children. The ball was decorated with the red revolutionary flags, the tri-colored flag of Italy, and, prominent above all, a mammoth copy of the stars and stripes. At the upper end of the room was a large picture, symbolical of the downfall of liberty in Poland, with the extirpation of the rebels of 1830. Scattered over all parts of the

The platform was occupied by a band of music, which performed exclusively old national and patriotic airs, such as the Marseilles Hymn. Julian Allen, esq., was chosen President, and speeches were made by Messrs. W. Kachanowaki in Polish, J. Kopff in German, A. Rashewski in French, L. Hrabowski in English, and Monsieur Leseine in French. The last speaker applied the spirit of revolution and freedom to negro Slavery, and alluded in eloquent terms to the nobleness of John Brown, characterizing him as a true martyr of Freedom. The President, Mr. Allen, took occasion to remark that the meeting would not hold itself responsible for the remarks of the last speaker, inasmuch as this was a meeting of strungers, and that it was not. this was a meeting of strongers, and that it was not their place to interfere with the rights of Slavery. It was their place to look first to the freedom of slavers in Europe. He (Mr. Allen) could embrace John Brown as a brother, but did not sympathize with the error that he had committed.

The meeting adjourned at 101 o'clock.

The meeting adjourned at 104 o'clock.

LECTURE BY THE HOS. THOMAS CORWIN .- Plymouth Church was crowded on Tuesday night to hear what 'Tom Corwin, the Wagon Boy," had to say on the subject of "The American Christian Citizen and his Duties." Mr. Corwin was welcomed with the most enthusiastic applause as he entered the room, and when introduced to the audience by Mr. Tilten the applause again rose, making the walls reëcho with its miniature thunder. Mr. Corwin said that he should miniature thunder. Mr. Corwin said that he should confine himself to one or two of the duties of the American citizen. He then proceeded to argue that it was the duty of the Christian citizen to obey the laws of his country, whether good or bad; and that the only way to put down bad laws was to vote them down in a proper and constitutional way. Any other course could only result in social disorder. He was decidedly averse to any man setting up for himself, and declaring for "the higher law," as long as we had a Constitution. The lecture was very warmly received.

DEATH OF A FIREMAN .- An inquest was held by Coroner O'Keefe, at the New-York Hospital, on the body of James Whalen, the fireman who was injured on Monday last, while running to a fire in Rector street. The evidence showed that the deceased had hold of the tongue of hose cart No. 56, and that, while endeavoring to stop the carriage, he was jammed against a cart which was passing at the time. He fell to the pavement, but subsequently was enabled to walk to the Hose-House, from whence he was conveyed to the City Hospital, where he died on Wednesday morning. The Coroner's Jury returned a verdice of "Death from injuries accidentally received."

COUNTERFEIT NOTES .- William Whalen was arrested on Tuesday evening for having passed counterterfeit $1 bills of the Battenkill Bank, of Manchester, Vermont. On Tuesday evening, Whalen and another person entered the store of Michael O'Hara, No. 507 Seventh avenne, and after calling for drinks offered one of the bills in payment. RAILROAD SMASS-UP .- NARBOW ESCAPE OF PAS-SENGERS .- About 51 o'clock on Wednesday morning, a Morris and Essex passenger and freight train was run into at the Grove street crossing, in Jersey City, by a New-York and Eric freight train, which re sulted in considerable damage, but fortunately no per son was injured. The Morris and Essex train had been brought to a stand-still in consequence of a locomotive having been thrown off the track by a switch near the depot. The train consisted of a number of freight cars and a passenger car at the rear. A signal light had been placed on the rear platform to warn any approaching train of danger. Shortly afterward the New-York and Eric freight train was discovered coming in at a rapid speed. Warning was given to the passengers, who ran out of the car, and the train was started forward. The engineer of the Erie train, upon seeing the danger ahead, blew down the brakes, but they were then too near to avoid a collision. The locomotive struck the passenger car with tremendous force, crushing it in, smashing up the two freight cars in front of it, and scattering about the freight. The Frie locomotive was thrown from the track, and before it could be stopped knocked over the switch-house and a telegraph pole. The cow-catches and front beam were broken, and the engine was otherwise damaged. Several trains were detained until about 8 o'clock, when the track was cleared. The accident appears to have occurred by the running of the New-York and Erie train at too high a rate of speed, and being a heavy train, it could not be checked in a short distance.

THE JERSEY CITY AND BERGEN HORSE RATLROAD. -At the meeting of the Jersey City Common Council, on Tuesday night, the ordinance previously introduced was adopted, granting the privilege to the Jersey City and Bergen Horse Railroad Company to lay down a track in certain streets of the city.

The Company are prepared to proceed with the work at once, and intend breaking ground sometime next week. It is expected that the cars will be running be fore the expiration of three months. The Company have also a charter to construct a road from Jersey City to Bergen Point. This road will also be built at the earliest possible moment. Mr. Merseles, who is one of the principal men in the new enterprise, states that during the past six + nths, ending November 26, there has been 198,961 p ngers conveyed in his omnibuses between Jersey (. ; and Bergen.

A PAIR OF BIGAMISTS,-Valentine Louisbury and Adelside Oliver were arrested at East Newark, and lodged in the Hudson County Jail on Tuesday, both of them being charged with higamy. They were married a short time since at Hudson City by the Rev. Dr. Taylor, and it subsequently transpired that the woman had a husband living. Upon further inquiry, it was found that Lounsbury also had a wife living in the State, and the parties were accordingly arrested and committed for trial.

Mayor's Veto.—At the last meeting of the Jersey City Common Council, Mayor Gregory sent in a veto of the resolution passed by the Foard, directing the Committee on Ferries and Wharves to remove the splies which were being driven in the Bay south of the city by the Morria Canal Company. A motion to pass the resolution over the veto was lest.

COMMERCIAL MATTERS.

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 30-P. M. The Stock market has been irregular and unsetled during the day, but upon the whole has had a downward movement. The breakdown in Pacific Mail has had a serious effect upon the market, and the decline in other stocks has been in some degree sympathetic, like as the previous advance. The Harpe Ferry agitation has possibly had some adverse influence on the market also, and a little more activity in money has contributed somewhat to the general business. The main features of the market has been the continuation of the reaction in Pacific Mail, with large transactions, especially at the Second Board, when nearly 3,000 shares were sold. The market opened in the morning at 84, but declined on moderate amounts of stock to 82. At the Second Board it fell off rapidly to 80, at which 2,000 shares were taken to cover shorts, and after selling at 791 it recovered to 80 Bid. The decline has now been 134 * cent from the highest point, since Saturday. The cause of the decline of the past day or two is understood to be a hitch in the negotiations with Commodore Vanderbilt. In addition to the terms ratified last Friday, by the Pacific Mail Directors, we hear that Mr. Vanderbilt now requires the individual guaranty of the Directors that there shall be no opposition established by any one on the Pacific, or that the $2,000,000 paid by him shall not be divided among the stockholders, but retained to be returned to him in ease such opposition is established. He also requires that the Panama Road shall agree, in case any oppo sition is established on the Atlantic, to carry his passengers at a lower rate of fare than those of the opposition line. Of course the Directors of the Pacific Mail are not disposed to give the guaranty desired, and the negotiations for the present drag. Panama was firm at 132@132]. New-York Central was fairly active, but was heavy and selling down to 81 at the Second Board, and afterward to 81], in sympathy with the heaviness of the rest of the market. Notwithstanding the favorable reports of the traffic of the road, Illinois Central centinues to decline under the influence of the state of the London market, and it sold at the morning board as low as 55]. The London holders are selling under the apprehension of a new call on the stock. Of this we are informed there is no prospect before next Spring, when the temporary loan negotiated in London falls due. At the Second Board there was a firmer feeling, and the stock was in demand at 56. Galena was quite heavy, and considerable sales were made at 721, closing offered at that price. Rock Island was also heavy, showing a decline of ent on the opening price. At the Second Board there was not much activity excepting in Pacific Mail, which was bought freely to cover short sales made at much higher prices. The tendency was decidedly downward. Reading was quite heavy, selling as low as 391. Norwish and Worcester sold at 41, which is an advance of 1 & cent. The improvement is on the prospect of a 21 & cent dividend in January, the money for which, we understand, is now in hand, although i the dividend before February. In the Bond market quotations had a downward tendency. Railroad bonds were, in some cases, lower, without important transactions. The Eric issues fell off. Some descriptions of State Stocks are pressed on the market, and Virginias at the close were offered at 924, seller sixty. Missouris were also beavy. The Harper's Ferry agitation has an unfavorable effect upon the stocks of the Slaveholding States. At the close the quotations were: For Virginia 6s, 93@934; Missouri 6s, 844@844; Canton Company, 174@18; Cumberland Coal, 124@413; Pacific Mail Steamship Company, 80@804; New-York Central Railroad, 81 | 2811; Eric Railroad, 9 | 291; Hudson River Railroad, 40? 241; Harlem River Railroad, 91 @ 10; Harlem Railroad Pref., 36 @ 361; Reading Railroad, 391@391; Michigan Central Railroad, 411@ 414; Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Railroad, 71 371; Michigan Southern and Northern Indiana Guaranteed, 184 w 184; Panama Railroad, 132 w 1324; Illinois Central Railroad, 56@56j; Galena and Chicago Railroad, 723 273; Cleveland and Toledo Railroad, 201 2 20; Chicago and Rock Island Railroad, 65 | @ 65 1; Illinois Central Railroad Bonds, 85

The Boston Post says:

"The indications are, that at the close of the year. may possibly not be the policy of the Company to make "The indications are, that at the close of the year, will be rather closer than it has recently In Boston, to be sure, there is no unfavorable change as yet; and, indeed, the demand for money is tempo-rarily less than that which has been lately current. But exchange with New York is ruling against this city, and our bank specie has declined to less than five millions. The aggregate cannot be further diminished to any extent, without inducing some fittle contraction, which is likely to be increased by the general feeling in favor of small transactions and close settlements of New York.

traction, which is facely to be increased by the general feeling in favor of small transactions and close settlements at New York.

"As before remarked, however, there is no sign at the financial horizon, of any considerable change toward tightness of our money market. The probability is, indeed, that until reat Astumn, at all events, money will be exceedingly abundant—too abundant, in fact—on all sorts of tashionable securities. There is no evidence that the Winter and Spring trade will be much different from that of the present year—no evidence of that mighty uprising of speculation and commerce that may occur, before the motey markets of the world can be seriously affected.

"In America, we are building no railroads, no factories—are speculating in no large way, and, indeed, are rather settling down and finding bottom, than engaging in new 'enterprises of pith and moment.' Hence, although we are doing a large hand to month business, and although some leading trades and interests are quite flourishing, yet the consumption of what is called money is much less than it usually is. Were it not for the enormous amount of dead, unliquidated debt in the community of renewals and re-renewals of old notes, we do not suppose that the business of the day would consume one-half of the floating crodits of commercial centers."

The Committee of the second mortgage bondholders

The Committee of the second mortgage bondholders of the Williamsport and Elmira Railroad Company have called a meeting of their constituents, to be held at Philadelphia. The object of the call is understood at Philadelphia. The object of the call is understood to be to report proceedings, and in particular, the terms of a proposition made to the Committee of the first mortgage bondholders for the reorganization of the Company, and the adjustment of the several interests concerned. The terms of this proposition are said to be substantially as follows: The holders of the first mortgage bonds to receive in lieu thereof a seven percent first preferred stock to an amount equal to the principal of their bonds, and coupons of 1858 and 59. The holders of the second mortgage bonds to receive a seven per cent second preferred stock, in smount equal to fifty per cent of the face of their bonds, and the present stockholders to receive a new common stock for an amount equal to one-fourth of that now held by them. The first preferred stockholders to elect a majority of the Board of Directors, and thus to have the control and management of the new Company. These, with liberal provisions for the settlement of the confidential and unsecured debt, are reported to be the leading features of the proposed arrangement.

The Philadelphia Ledger thos speaks of the new counterfeit on the Philadelphia Bank:

"The discovery yesterday morning of new and well-executed counterfeit $100 and $50 bills on the Philadelphia Bank itself, had been victimized to harge amounts, created quite an excitement on Third street, and among bank note dealers generally. A clerk in the private banking-house of Drexel & Co. brought to this office one of each of the counterfeits; leang part of a remittance of $3,000 from their correspondent at New-York. The house had made its usual morning deposit at bank, and before information was received here of the existence of such counterfeits. Immediately, however, on learning that there were counterfeit out of the description named, Mr. Drexel called at the bank, and their bundle of notes left for deposit being unbroken—the bank elerk not yet having had time to count them—it was examined, and and every bill of the entire r to be to report proceedings, and in particular, the
